DAIRY FIELD DAY MARCH 20

Senators Robinson and Caraway Are Silent on Judgship

Sense of Propriety Offended, So Soon After Martineau's Death

URGE COURT BILL

Head of Newly-Formed Lawyers Guild Speaks in Its Behalf

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Arkansas' two senators, who will have the last word in naming a successor to the late Judge John E. Martineau, have made no comment on the possible successor, and their associates said Friday that "quick speculation" over the appointment was not in keeping with their "sense of propriety."

What effect the action of the Arkansas legislature in endorsing Governor Bailey for the appointment would have was not apparent in the capital in the absence of official comment. Bailey is regarded here as belonging to "the liberal element" of the Democratic party. He is among more than a dozen "possibilities" suggested by individual groups in Arkansas.

Urges F. D. Court Bill
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Judge John P. Devaney, president of the newly-formed National Lawyers Guild, urged Friday the enactment of President Roosevelt's court bill as "the most conservative remedy available" to make possible "progressive legislation now imperatively needed."

Devaney told the senate judiciary committee: "It keeps the constitution intact. It keeps the powers of our courts intact. It keeps the legal profession administering the law along the lines it has known."

Believe 18 Dead in Mine Disaster

Third Body Brought Up From Shaft in Workings Near Logan, W. Va.

LOGAN, W. Va.—(AP)—The explosion-shattered Macheth mine gave up its third body Friday and rescue crews digging through the debris were virtually certain that the 15 other trapped men were dead.

The blast occurred shortly after 8 o'clock Thursday night in the Hutchinson Coal company mine eight miles east of Logan.

The State Department of Mines issued a preliminary opinion that the ignition of a gas pocket caused the explosion.

A complete investigation will be started when the last man has been brought out.

Franked Mail Up by 250 Per Cent

Arizona Senator Thinks Congress "Free List" Is Wasteful

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senator Hayden (Dem., Ariz.) produced postal statistics Thursday to show that the amount of mail sent free by government agencies increased nearly 250 per cent between 1930 and 1936.

Hayden said that part of the increase "might have been entirely justified" but he criticized distribution of what he called "needless publicity matter."

Answering "newspaper charges" that the congressional franking privilege had contributed materially to the postoffice deficit, Hayden contended the volume of congressional free mail had remained virtually constant during most of the six-year period and comprised only a minor part of postal expense.

Concerning other government agencies, he said: "In my opinion entirely too much needless publicity matter has been sent out."

Hayden, a member of a subcommittee considering the Postoffice Department appropriations bill, said testimony before the committee showed an increase from $9,347,505 in 1930 to $23,236,269 in 1936 in the amount of free postage used by departments.

A half million acorns were planted on Oklahoma farms this winter as part of the soil conservation service erosion control program.

Turned Brown By Brown Turner

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—It used to be, back in the horse and buggy days, when a man didn't have anything else to do he didn't try to tell everybody else how the country ought to be run, but would sit down and try to figure out a new-fangled churn to sell to his neighbors, and instead of worrying about how fast automobile tires wear wearing out, spent the rainy afternoons putting new soles on his shoes. But as long as a lot of people can enjoy a brass band and a nickel's worth of rat-trap cheese and crackers, there's hope.

Gentry Files Suit to Regain Office

Hope Man Claims Salary Now Being Paid to Bailey Appointee

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—U. A. Gentry of Hope, state insurance commissioner in the Futrell administration, filed suit in Pulaski circuit court Friday to oust M. J. Harrison, Little Rock appointee of Governor Bailey.

The suit against Harrison asked that Gentry be declared the rightful holder of the office and that Harrison be required to pay the salary he had drawn to the former commissioner.

Press Is Received by Mrs. Simpson

She Talks to Reporters for the First Time Since Abdication

MONTES, France—(AP)—Mrs. Wallis Simpson received three American reporters Thursday to tell them that she was enjoying to the utmost her stay in the Touraine chateau country.

She is likely to stay at the Chateau de Candé at least a month. She is looking forward to some golf as soon as the course dries out.

Mrs. Simpson received the press on the condition that questions be agreed upon in advance and that she would not be quoted directly.

The newspapermen met her in the library of the beautiful chateau—reached through a twisting stone corridor with small banks of hydrangeas and pink roses in the corners. She looked well and contented.

She was dressed simply in a light fitting navy blue two-piece wool dress. Two gold flower clips were at her neck, and she wore earrings to match. Her only other jewelry was a sparkling sapphire and platinum ring, on the third finger of the right hand.

Mrs. Charles Badaux, who owns the chateau, and Mr. and Mrs. Herman L. Rogers, Mrs. Simpson's Riviera friends, were in the library, which was surrounded by a gallery stocked with rare old books.

There was an electric organ at one end of the room and a bowl of orchids on a small table in the center. A log fire flickered cheerfully.

Mrs. Simpson's accent appeared more British than American.

She asked a former war correspondent about conditions in Spain and expressed sympathy for the people of that country.

As she spoke she sipped a glass of sherry, but declined a cigarette.

She was eager about the golf, although she said that her game was none too famous.

She remarked that her bedroom was lovely; that the sun streamed in when she awoke this morning.

Rogers wanted to clear up a misunderstanding about Mrs. Simpson's occupancy of the chateau. He said neither he nor Mrs. Simpson had rented it, but that the owner, Badaux, had placed it at her disposal for a long as she desired to stay.

He said that Mrs. Simpson has no plans to go to Paris or to buy a trousseau for her wedding to the Duke of Windsor.

Cunningham, who is well acquainted with the private links of the Chateau de Candé, declined to say if he had been engaged to teach the Duke of Windsor and his fiancée their favorite sport.

He added, however: "I am around here if needed."

U. S. Ambassador Gives Germany Our Protest

BERLIN, Germany—(AP)—United States Ambassador William E. Dodd explained to the German foreign minister Friday that German press attacks on United States citizens tend to "cloud German-American relations."

Texan shippers say Mexican tomatoes are coming through Rio Grande ports in large quantities for shipment to terminal markets in the United States.

Clark Warren, of McCaskill, Killed in Crash on No. 24

Charles Griffith Critically Injured With Skull Base Fracture

TRUCK IS DITCHED

Heavy Load of Lumber Lunges Forward, Tearing Away Truck Cab

Clark Warren, 50, of McCaskill, was instantly killed and three other McCaskill men were injured Thursday morning about 12 miles east of Nashville on Highway 24 when the lumber truck in which they were riding plunged into a ditch after the steering gear broke.

The injured are: Coy Mims, who sustained head and chest injuries, several fractured ribs and lacerations about the body.

Marvin Strawn, dislocated hip and numerous lacerations.

Charles Griffith, both legs fractured below the knees and a fractured skull at the base of the brain. All four men were occupants of the truck, which was reported to be heavily loaded with lumber.

Second Seriously Hurt
Dr. N. I. Stebbins of the Nashville hospital, where the injured men were taken, told The Star over telephone Friday afternoon that the condition of Griffith had grown critical and it was doubtful whether he would recover.

"He was the most seriously injured of the three brought to the hospital and at this time his condition is very critical. It is doubtful whether he will recover," Dr. Stebbins said.

S. F. Leslie, near whose home the crash occurred, and his son, Sam Leslie, were the first to reach the scene of the wreck. Warren was dead when they arrived. Mims and Griffith were unconscious. An ambulance carried the dead man and the injured to the Nashville hospital.

Strawn said that Warren, who was driving lost control when the steering wheel broke. The truck plunged into the ditch.

Lumber Crushes Cab
The lumber shifted, tearing the cab entirely away from the truck and crushing Warren, Strawn and Mims who were riding in the cab seat. Griffith was riding behind the cab in front of the lumber.

The body of Warren was returned to his home at McCaskill late Thursday. Funeral services were to be held at 2 p. m. Friday near Blevins.

He is survived by his widow and five daughters, all of McCaskill; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Warren of Blevins; one brother, Cletus Warren of El Dorado.

Four sisters, Mrs. G. F. Lively of McCaskill; Mrs. Lora Liamond of Dallas; Mrs. Bert Evans of Delight; Mrs. Lorene Honea of Tucson, Ariz.

England Building 148 Fighting Ships

Mightiest Naval Armament in History Is Begun by Sea Empire

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—Great Britain outlined Thursday one of the mightiest naval building programs in history and dropped a warning hint of the power she will hold—particularly in the Mediterranean.

While Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy fretted at Libya at the head of his fleet, Sir Samuel Hoare, first lord of the British Admiralty, told the House of Commons that secret plans had been made to repel any attack "in narrow seas."

The first lord minced no words in announcing Great Britain's determination to protect empire trade routes and maintain her power in both hemispheres. Many observers believed Sir Samuel's remarks were pointed primarily at Italy.

He told Commons that, by the end of the year, Great Britain would have under construction "the remarkable number" of 148 new warships. Introducing the 1937 naval estimates, Sir Samuel said they call for 80 more new ships—above those already authorized—at a cost of $25,325,000. Among them, he said, will be five capital ships, four aircraft carriers and 17 cruisers.

The new battleships, Sir Samuel said, will be faster and more heavily armed than ever before, and "the seven new cruisers we propose to lay down will bring our under-age cruisers to 53 over-age to 23."

The five new battleships will displace 35,000 tons each and will mount 14-inch guns. The four aircraft carriers to be under construction within the year will be of 23,000 tons each, twenty size, and will be far less vulnerable to attack than their predecessors.

Health department statistics revealed 36 South Carolinians died of "alcoholism" during the 12 months ended June 29.

Big Electric Sign Atop 1st National to Advertise City

Neon Sign on Tallest Building to Be 30 Feet Long, 10 Feet High

VISIBLE AT FULTON

Would Spell City's Names to Highway Tourists and Aviators

Meeting in special session Thursday night, the city council went on record as favoring the purchase of two gigantic neon electric signs to be placed on top of First National Bank building and on the municipal water and light plant.

The signs would cost approximately $1,200 total. The only dissenting vote was cast by Alderman Kenneth G. Hamilton. Purchase of the two signs is subject to approval of the Board of Public Affairs and N. P. O'Neal, owner of First National Bank building.

Blacktop for Walnut
The council also passed a motion permitting the WPA to blacktop the South Walnut street project from Third street to the high school building. The street will be made slightly narrower than the specifications that called for graveling. The cost of the project will remain the same, both to the WPA and to the city.

It is understood that right-of-way has been given for the project and work is to start in the near future.

The proposed neon sign for the First National Bank building is 30 feet long and the letters 10 feet high. The sign would be erected on steel braces suspended 18 feet above the top of the bank building.

It was said the sign could be seen as far as the Fulton Red river bridge, and from a distance in the air of 50 to 75 miles. The bank building was selected because it is the highest building in town. The council voted to pay Mr. O'Neal a rental charge of $1 per year for a 10-year lease, which is subject to renewal if the city desires.

Mr. O'Neal was not in the city Friday, but it was said that he favored the erection of the sign on the building.

An Air Beacon
The sign would spell the word HOPE. It would serve as a beacon for aviators as well as an outstanding landmark for southwest Arkansas, the only city to have such a sign. It was said the sign would be designated on aviation maps throughout the country, bringing Hope publicity on the airways.

The city would also benefit because of increased traffic on the Broadway of America, and because Hope is situated on a trunk line railway the sign could be seen by many passengers.

The proposed sign for the water and light plant building would spell out the name HOPE WATER & LIGHT PLANT in colors. It would not be near as large as the one for the bank building.

State Wants Its Electrical Funds

1 1/3 Million Set Aside by REA, But Unreceived by Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Chairman Thomas Fitzhugh of the State Utilities Commission announced Friday he would go to Washington Saturday to seek release of federal funds allocated for rural electrification development in Arkansas.

He said $1,300,000 of government money has been earmarked for this state, but none of seven state projects have received final approval from the Rural Electrification Administration (REA).

The first loan mined no words in announcing Great Britain's determination to protect empire trade routes and maintain her power in both hemispheres. Many observers believed Sir Samuel's remarks were pointed primarily at Italy.

He told Commons that, by the end of the year, Great Britain would have under construction "the remarkable number" of 148 new warships. Tax to Increase Liquor 5c a Pint

Tax Hiked From 40 to 65c Per Gallon—Beer Tax Is $1.50 Barrel

LITTLE ROCK—Approximately 200 Revenue Department inspectors made an inventory Thursday of liquor and beer stocks on hand at 18 wholesale liquor houses, 133 wholesale beer distributors and 527 retail liquor stores and collected more than $75,000 additional tax under Act 236, which increased the liquor and beer tax.

Senate Bill 242 by Senator Hall of Van Buren county, increasing the liquor tax from 40 to 65 cents per gallon and the beer tax from $1 to $1.50 per barrel, was approved by Governor Bailey.

At the same hour, representatives of the Revenue Department began their inventory in every county in the state.

Under the Hall liquor tax act, the additional revenue will be used to support branch agricultural experiment stations, to provide hospitalization for indigent sick, to help pay the cost of maintaining agricultural and home demonstration work, to aid the counties in paying for treatment of patients at the State Tuberculosis Sanatorium, and to supplement the Confederate pension fund.

The tax will be collected as a single tax, but will be distributed on the basis of 40 and 25 cents per gallon. The tax on a half-pint of liquor under the combined tax laws will be four cents, eight cents on a pint, 13 cents on a "fifth," and 16 1/2 cents on a quart.

Revenue inspectors said that most liquor dealers said they would increase retail prices five cents per pint to make up for the additional tax.

Job Insurance Is Up to Rooksbery

90% of U. S. Unemployment Tax Will Be Handled by State Agency

LITTLE ROCK—W. A. Rooksbery, director of the United States Employment and the National Re-employment Service for Arkansas, will head the Division of Unemployment Compensation in the reorganized state Department of Labor.

Reappointment of Ed I. McKinley Sr. as labor commissioner by Governor Bailey, and designation of Mr. Rooksbery as head of the department's Unemployment Compensation Division by Mr. McKinley, will be made.

Mr. Rooksbery returned from Washington and conferred with Governor Bailey and Commissioner McKinley relative to establishment of the new division in the Labor Department.

Mr. Rooksbery took certified copies of the recently enacted Arkansas unemployment compensation law to Washington last week for submission to the Social Security Board. The act was approved, as was Mr. Rooksbery's appointment as its director of administration. A grant for setting up the administrative offices will be made as soon as rulings of the attorney general on its constitutionality have been filed with the board at Washington.

The National Re-employment Service, of which Mr. Rooksbery now is state director, will withdraw from the state. The United States Employment Service will match state funds for operation of a federal-state employment service, to be administered under the new Unemployment Compensation Division, of the Labor Department.

After the National Re-employment Service has completed its withdrawal, probably about July 1, Arkansas will have become a member of a chain of federal-state employment services, which make up the United States Employment Service.

Administrative cost of the Unemployment Compensation Division of the Labor Department will be paid by the federal government. The state will receive 90 per cent of the taxes collected in Arkansas under the Social Security Act under Title 9 of the act (Collections under Title 8, for old age retirement payments, will be disbursed directly by the Social Security Board.)

It is estimated that 6,000 workmen will be employed in the construction of the sister ship to the giant British liner Queen Mary. Approximately 40,000 tons of steel will be used.

Kraft Co. Cheese Plant Party Here Saturday a Week

Milk Payments to Farmers Run From $100 to $250 Per Day

CARLOAD OF CATTLE

Fine Jerseys to Be Put on Display, and Offered for Sale Here

The first anniversary of the opening of the Kraft-Phenix Cheese corporation's factory in this city will be celebrated with a dairy field day program in Hope Saturday, March 20.

Announced by J. M. Roddy, in charge of dairy development for the southwest division of Kraft, with headquarters at Denison, Texas, the Hope program will be similar to that observed at Searcy, Ark., and other points.

The Hope cheese factory and whole-milk market opened on May 16, 1936. E. S. Alexander is plant manager, and three men comprise the entire factory personnel. But all the real personnel and "payroll" of a cheese factory are out on the highways and farms.

Mr. Alexander said Friday that the local factory has nine independent truck owners hauling milk from a radius of 40 miles in every direction from Hope.

Active farm milk suppliers number 175, and more than 400 farmers on the Kraft company's books here.

Milk checks are sent out twice a month. The average payments for milk alone range from $100 to $250 a day, or $37,000 to $90,000 a year.

Milk offerings to a cheese plant vary widely through the year, depending on pasture conditions on the farm. The range of the local plant in its first year has been from 9,000 pounds of whole milk a day to 4,000 pounds. Offerings are greatest from early spring until early winter, and are least during the dead of winter.

From a present "top" of 6,000 or 10,000 pounds daily the local factory expects to build up to 34,000 pounds, which is its capacity with present personnel on a single shift.

The field day program scheduled March 20 is an event which is expected to stimulate interest in the cheese plant.

A carload of high grade Jersey cattle will be on display and for sale to dairy farmers of this section. One dairy cow will be given away, Mr. Roddy announced.

A parade, starting from the plant on South Walnut street and winding up at Hope city hall, is planned. The parade will include a herd of dairy cattle.

Besides talks and demonstrations of dairy development, a program dealing with the beef cattle industry of this section will be given.

Several well known speakers are included on the all-day program. A. J. Riddle, general manager of the southwest division of the cheese corporation, will come here from Denison, Texas. Other officials are expected to accompany him.

The speaking program will be held from the city hall, starting at 2 p. m. Speakers will discuss permanent and seasonal pastures, the growing of more and better roughage crops, better balanced grain rations and other topics of interest to dairy farmers.

Mr. Alexander, manager of the local cheese plant, will announce the formal program and the list of speakers early next week.

Erysipelas, Rarely Fatal, Usually Clears Up in About Eight Days

By DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

(No. 159)

Erysipelas begins as an irregularly round or oval patch on almost any part of the skin. One kind is called the butterfly type, because it appears on each side of the face, the patch on each cheek being connected by a red streak over the bridge of the nose.

Erysipelas patches are dark red in color, slightly swollen, hot and tender. Once the condition begins, it may spread rather rapidly on the skin, covering another inch or two every day, until considerable sections of the skin are involved.

At the same time there may be fever and chill, and all the symptoms usually associated with a general infection of the body—headache, loss of appetite, vomiting, and sometimes delirium. Ordinarily, erysipelas will clear up in about eight days, but in severe cases, may take 15.

Erysipelas of the face may spread over the entire face, including the eyelids, and may even swell the eyes shut, when erysipelas affects the ear, this organ will become exceedingly thick.

It is an interesting fact that erysipelas frequently stops when it reaches the hairline or, in fact, any natural boundary such as the nape of the neck or the edges where the skin is tight over the bones.

An infection of this kind usually is accompanied by much fever, and also an emphatic increase in the number of white blood cells, which are concerned with the attack on the infection.

When the skin infection stops, the fever begins to drop. If the skin has been swollen enough to be damaged by the inflammation, it may peel after the disease passes. In some cases however, erysipelas may repeatedly attack the same areas of skin and may cause a permanent thickening which, like any type of scarring, is unsightly.

The most serious complication of erysipelas, of course, is a secondary infection with other germs, particularly of the type associated with abscesses. If abscesses develop, it may become necessary to apply new methods for treatment to control the formation of pus and to get rid of the infectious material.

In erysipelas cases, a secondary infection with pneumonia, a severe abscess, or a secondary infection of heart or joints may be much more serious than the original disease itself.

Erysipelas seldom proves fatal. Nevertheless, in very young babies, and in very old and in sickly people, it may be sufficiently serious to cause death. In general, however, the death rate for erysipelas is low—about three deaths a year for every 100,000 people in a community.

When erysipelas appears repeatedly in the same individual the new attacks frequently may be controlled by treatment of the condition from which the erysipelas arises. Chronic sinus infection, ringworm of the feet, and constant irritation of the skin by rough clothing or similar material may be the beginning of inflammation in such repeated cases.

A great many experiments have been carried out to define the exact form of the streptococcus responsible for erysipelas, and there seems to be a well-established belief that a special form of streptococcus, different from that which usually causes scarlet fever, is responsible for this condition.

Heredity and Food at Root of Bad Teeth

A dentist said recently that he was having his early spring rush and appointments had to be made at least a week ahead.

"How does that come?" I asked, surprised. "Why spring?"

"Better weather to get here for one reason," he replied, "and then, you know, I still believe that more starch and sugar in winter diets have something to do with decay. There isn't any question that people do use heavier desserts in winter, and naturally they go in for more starchy foods."

But he added that if everyone was getting needed minerals in diet and brushing teeth as usual, there was no reason for decay at one time of year more than another. Except that tooth trouble comes from low vitality and illness, too, and cold settling in jaws. In short, winter is no respecter of teeth any more than it is of ears and throat, and dormant infections often kick up trouble.

Ingredients For Good Teeth. This brings us to the general care of children's teeth, from the baby on up, and why it is that some children have naturally good strong "ivories" while others have poor ones.

In the first place, racial tendencies have something to do with it. Sun dwellers run to hard white teeth. Races descended of it, and who also lack compensating foods, are likely to have soft ones.

Next comes parental influence. If the expectant mother lacks sufficient sun and a generous diet of fruits, vegetables and sunfoods rich in vitamins, her baby may have poor teeth. So actually baby's good teeth should be anticipated long before he is born.

When he gets here, doctors continue the diet within a few weeks by supplementing milk with codliver oil and orange juice. And as soon as he can take them, he is given strained vegetables, tomato juice and so on. Babies get egg yolk much earlier, too, than used to be the case. The idea is to set up bony structure in general, and teeth are part of it.

When a dozen or so teeth have appeared, then begins the mother's part in direct care, because the other is indirect. A tiny soft tooth brush may be used morning and night. And through life this should be kept up. It is a valuable habit, and all habits must have early beginnings.

Brushing Minimizes Decay. Children should brush their own teeth after meals. Whatever effect lodged food has on teeth—some say much, others say less—daily brushing keeps the green tartar from forming, and this is a hotbed for decay.

Food must be chewed and chewed. And there should be enough crusts and other tough subjects, not curl the hair, but to strengthen jaws, and roots of teeth and gums. Good, solid, healthy gums are important.

First-teeth should be preserved as long as they are not loosening. It pays to have these looked after periodically and even filled. The second teeth will do better if this is done, for various reasons.

When second teeth are crooked, or the jaw is narrow and crowding takes place, miracles are performed these days in straightening.

Diet, cleanliness and care; sunlight, exercise and general good health, these are the factors in tooth hygiene.

yarn gets squared away, presently, and unwinds a pretty slick plot.

For the newlyweds, honeymooning in a farmhouse, bump smack into a most foul murder—and nothing will do, of course, but that they sit down and solve it, which they do with all neatness and dispatch. The plot is practically holeproof, and if Miss Sayers doesn't accuse your Anglophobia too much, you'll find it exceedingly enjoyable—is Geoffrey Homes' "The Man Who Didn't Exist" (Morrow; $2), a hard-boiled and speedy tale about a newspaper reporter who goes out to investigate a suicide hoax and comes on a chain of murders. Mr. Homes can cook up an intricate plot and tell a story without lost motion; list him as one of the white hopes of the detective story racket, and lay two bucks on the line for "The Man Who Didn't Exist."

An American edition of Mrs. Belloc Lowndes' fine thriller, "A Chink in the Armour," is now available (Longmans; $2). This story about an English heiress who goes to a French watering place for a vacation, falls in with a bunch of gamblers, and walks unwittingly into a murder trap, is packed with suspense and shivers. You'll find it well worth your while.

WITH THE LADIES

By Helen Welshimer

Emotion Control Is Boon to Wife.

Ever since women's colleges began to realize, a few years ago, that co-eds continue to be more interested in the technique of husband-choosing and holding than in anthropology, applied psychology of a general sort, and antique jewelry-making, courses have been offered in human relationships. Now Vassar comes along with one which lists among its topics, "Techniques of Emotional Self-Management."

If ever there was a course which should be compulsory for all women, we recommend this one: Proper application of the rules of emotional behavior without a doubt would dispel hysteria, pomposity, and tearful scenes forever.

There are some things which every woman should know. Briefly, how to control herself—

1. When she knows that it is a blonde, recently blonded, who has detained her husband at the office.

2. When she meets her husband's old girl whose proprietary interest is not at all displeasing to her husband—who wouldn't have married her anyway, if the first girl hadn't jilted him.

3. When he has compelled her to follow a social schedule permitting only five hours sleep a night, and then, when her nerves are tissue paper stuff, accuses her of keeping him out nights.

4. When he comes to dinner an hour late and complains because the roast is over-done.

5. When he spends too much of the family income on conviviality and then scolds because she can't pay the grocery bill; when—

There is no end to the list.

All Trying Situations. At such times it takes a strength and endurance beyond any ever conceived by man or woman to hold on to her emotions, smile, speak quietly, and pretend that she is happiest among her wives of men. When a woman knows that she is in the right, and is being taken to task by a man who traps his own blame around her neck, she wouldn't be human if she didn't want to fling back a tirade.

"Techniques of Emotional Self-Management!" The ability to hold on to yourself and say nothing. The self restraint to clench your hands and not throw the ash trays or the coffee cups or kick over the waste paper basket. The ability to laugh. That is what it means.

Courtesy is the basis of the emotional compatibility between two people. If this could be instilled into the minds of the Vassar girls, the alumni statistics, a few years hence, would show that marriage plays a big part on the school calendar.

Men Duck Responsibilities. For men, though they are the causes of the emotional jitters that beset their wives and sweethearts, take to themselves no part of the blame. They will give vent to their impatience or wrath and expect to be treated like a king who has been wronged, but that a woman should avail herself of an equal privilege is below the dignity of her sex, they contend. They despise scenes.

Therefore, if a girl could be taught that she must be courteous no matter what the situation; that she must speak the soft answers which are credited with turning away wrath; that she must let her sense of humor be a gentle cloak for the depravity of the man she married, she could overlook his defects and double her love.

Men are as they are. Women, even bachelors of arts, might as well learn it early in life.

And a woman, in this instance, is a far wiser instructor than a man.

There are now 95,000 motion picture theaters in the world, an increase of about 8,000 in the last year. Soviet Russia accounted for 4,200 of this increase.

STAUNCH GATEWAY TO THE EAST.

HEAVY guns glower from nooks in the massive rock that is Gibraltar, at the southernmost tip of Spain, while across the strait another eminence at Ceuta glowers back. These were the famous "Pillars of Hercules," which marked practically the end of the world to the ancients. Recent threat of fortifying Ceuta has renewed interest in Britain's stronghold of Gibraltar.

Famous since the time of the Phoenicians, this natural stronghold was first fortified in 711 A. D. by Tariq, the Moor, who held the rock for 800 years. The Spaniards regained the fortress and strengthened it, but lost it to the British, in 1704. Since then, the British flag has never been lowered, despite two later attempts of the Spanish to recapture the point.

Today, it is said, the rock is crumbling, but it still remains a fort to be reckoned with. Stamps issued by Gibraltar in 1931 illustrate it.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of AdvanceJesus Prays for His Disciples
Text: John 16:5-7; 17:14-26

This lesson on Jesus praying for His disciples recalls the words of Jesus to Peter at the Last Supper hath desired to have you, that he may sit you as wheat; but I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not." Essentially, this was the prayer of Jesus for His disciples, that their faith should not fail, and that they should be equal to the burdens and responsibilities that they had accepted in becoming His disciples.

The love of Jesus for His disciples and His deep concern for them was, if anything, intensified by His realization that some would leave them. He knew they would miss His supporting presence, and the inspiration of His own example of faith and courage.

Consequently He assured them that He would send them the Comforter, the Holy Spirit, whose presence would sustain them and who would bring to them all that His own early living presence had meant.

In the presence of some, at least, who remembered and recorded His words. He prayed to the Father for the disciples, whom He was leaving. He realized that they would be in a hostile world where men would hate them. Yet His prayer was not that they would be taken from the world, but that in his world of evil, they should be kept from evil. His earnest meaning was that they should be sanctified in the truth. Jesus was sending them into the world in the same spirit and with the same purpose that the Father had sent the Son into the world. Surely He had devoted Himself to them, and it was His earnest prayer that the same sanctification might be theirs.

Nor was He praying for only the immediate circle of disciples. He perceived that there would be the disciples of days to come, then men and women who would see the truth, and accept it as it was proclaimed by those whom He was sending forth.

For these disciples the earnest prayer was that they might be strengthened in the unity of love. His one great purpose was that the love that the Father had for the world might become the love dominating every relationship among the disciples themselves, and it is in this love that the world is to be saved. The general public is extended an invitation to these meetings.

Hope Chapter 328 O. E. S., together with the Emmet chapter 406 will have the following distinguished guests at a banquet at 6:30 Friday evening: Mrs. Louise Boyd of Fort Smith, worthy grand matron; Mrs. Edith McLain of Gordon, past grand matron; Mrs. Attie Aaron of Texarkana, grand electa; Mrs. Rose Mattar of Arkadelphia, deputy grand lecturer of District No. 8; Mrs. Gertrude Palmer of Texarkana, D. G. L. of District No. 7, other guests will be from Malvern, Arkadelphia, Gordon, Prescott, Donaldson, Amity and Texarkana. A meeting of the chapter will open at 8 o'clock, at the Masonic hall.

Tabernacle Revival Opens Here Sunday

Rev. and Mrs. Floyd L. Hawkins to Be Here Two Weeks or Longer

The Rev. and Mrs. Floyd L. Hawkins of Dallas, Texas, will begin a revival campaign at the Hope Gospel Tabernacle, North Main, Sunday, March 14, to continue two weeks or longer. The Rev. Mr. Hawkins recently resigned from the pastorate of the Full Gospel Church, Peak and Garland streets, in Dallas, to enter evangelistic work. He is well known for his radio work having been heard on stations WRIT and KRLD for the past several years. Mr. Hawkins is considered one of the most able speakers in his denomination and comes to Hope highly recommended by the leaders of his church. Before assuming the pastorate at Dallas Evangelist Hawkins was at different times district superintendent of young people's work in Oklahoma, then California, and Texas.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins are experienced musicians and singers and will be heard nightly throughout the campaign.

The general public is extended an invitation to these meetings.

every purpose and activity of the fellowship of disciples in the midst of the world that they would redeem, through the power of the Gospel, from its evil.

What a deep and wonderful conception we have of the nature of discipleship and of what the fellowship of disciples in the church might be if churches everywhere were marked by this unity of spirit and purpose, and if they fulfilled in every respect the reality of the Master's prayer!

What strength and inspiration it should give to us individually to know that Jesus prays for each of us as He prayed for Peter, and that we have an eternal intercessor of God behind us to keep us strong, and true, and faithful.

"What Have They Seen in Thy House" will be the subject for discussion Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. One great man has said, "Tell me what is in your house by choice, and I will tell you your home life." Visitors in our home get true conceptions of our home life, by what they see in our homes. This subject will be discussed thoroughly Sunday morning.

"By What Are Ye Saved" will be the lesson Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. This has long been a subject of discussion by the religious world. The Bible is plain on the subject. All of this discussion is useless if people are willing to take the Bible as their rule of faith and practice. Come and study the lesson with us. Bring your Bibles. We have no other book of discipline. We believe it is enough. Paul said it was "Perfect." You can't improve upon a perfect thing, so the Bible can't be improved upon by adding a man made discipline.

A large attendance is expected for the first Sunday of the Hawkins campaign; be one of the number next Sunday at 9:45 at the Gospel Tabernacle Sunday school. Some have been away, others ill but now most everyone seems to be getting enthused about Sunday school; be present next Sunday.

A drive is on to break the present attendance record of some months ago.

Make arrangements to attend Sunday school Easter Sunday and help set a new attendance mark.

Rev. Floyd L. Hawkins of Dallas, Texas will speak at both the morning and evening services on Sunday, beginning a series of meetings to last at least two weeks. Rev. and Mrs. Hawkins are two of the most able workers it has been our privilege to know and we expect a great turnout to hear them. Both are fine musicians and singers. The meetings will be held at 7:45 each night except Saturday.

It is expected that the Odom quartet will be singing again Sunday night.

Be sure to listen to the radio program over station KCMC, Texarkana from 2:30 to 3:00 Sunday afternoon.

FIRST CHRISTIAN
V. A. Hammond, Pastor

Easter always marks a high spot in the church school attendance records. Let's begin this week building toward an attendance for Easter Sunday morning, two weeks away. That will lift every class "out of the red."

The pastor will speak at the morning service Sunday, on the subject "Church Members, or Christians." Is there any difference between a Christian and a member of the church? Can one be a member of the church and not a Christian? Can one be a Christian and not be a member of the church? These are vital questions, and as disciples of Christ we should have a clear conception of the facts concerning them. The sermon is a timely one for the period of consecration just before Easter, and every member of the church should hear it.

The Junior Endeavor group will study the topic "Planning and Keeping Our Quiet Time," with Jewell Moore, Jr., serving as program leader. This group meets at 5 p. m. and cordially invites all Juniors to meet with them. Mrs. V. A. Hammond is the adult sponsor.

Denial that J. P. Morgan & Co. policies contemplated seizure of the Van Swearingen brothers from control of their real estate and rail empire was made by Thomas W. Endeavor group, meeting at 6:45 p. m., in the discussion of the topic "Membership in the World's Greatest Fellowship." All young people are invited to attend.

The pastor will speak at the evening service, beginning at 7:30, on the subject "Downright Reality." In Shakespeare's play "Othello" Iago, the old soldier, exclaims, "But I will wear my heart upon my sleeve for days to peek at; I am not what I am." You may find plenty of 20th century Ogos in home life, business life, society life—and without doubt, in church life. Like Iago they wear their hearts upon their sleeves and are not what they seem to be. Can your friends and loved ones see God in you? Is your Christian experience one of "Downright Reality?" Don't you want it to be?

2 Jockeys Let Out at Oaklawn Track

"Funny Business" Brings About Suspension at Hot Springs

HOT SPRINGS—Rumors that "funny business" has been going on at Oaklawn race track came into the open Thursday when it was announced that Jockey Johnny Hernandez and that Jockey F. A. Smith had been suspended for five days for rough riding.

Suspension of Hernandez was announced by Steward William Hamilton who said it followed investigation by officials of the Oaklawn Jockey Club in which evidence was obtained that Hernandez had used a battery on Rutland, an odds-on favorite which won the fifth race Thursday, March 4. Rutland paid $3.40, $2.50 and $2.30.

Hamilton said that the device, which resembles a cigarette lighter and is made from a dry battery, is held in the jockey's hand and touched to the horse's neck, terrorizing him. Hernandez's case will be taken up by the Arkansas Racing Commission at the close of the meet. The commission has power to extend the suspension.

Smith was suspended as the result of his tactics while riding Scout Plane, the R. Robertson entry in the second race Wednesday. It was charged that he caused his horse to cross over and interfere with Delta Dan.

Only Thursday Smith filed a protest against Jockey L. Machado. He charged that his mount, Sun Apollo, had been pressed against the rail by Kentucky ridden by Machado in the fourth race. Kenty barely beat out Sun Apollo at the finish. The protest was disallowed, however.

Several other jockeys have been suspended for rough riding and interference. The longest suspension up today was the 10 days given Jockey Charlie Mills for interfering with Our Sammy on March 6.

Long Shot Victories Explained
Ed Farris, secretary of the Racing Commission, admitted Thursday that there had been much talk about the large number of long shots that have been winning at the meet here but he said that no crookedness has been proved. He said that the winning horse is every race is being given a saliva test.

Hamilton also deprecated talk aroused by the large number of successful long shots.

"Some long shots have won, but they win on every track," he said. "No opiates or other stimulants have been found on the saliva tests. When a long shot wins, you usually will find that it has been especially prepared for a race and that the bettors, not knowing this, have overlooked the horse's good chance."

Few favorites won Thursday but the only real long shot to win was Henry Dew in the final race on which there was heavy betting. He paid $18.60 $5.40 and $3.80. He ran absolutely last in his first time out, made a poor showing in his second appearance and was carrying top weight Thursday.

The daily double paid $63.50.

New Tackle Catches Fishermen as Well as Fish With Balanced Outfits Stressed

All Types of Fishing Tackle Show a Big Improvement This Season as Fishermen Go to Rivers and Lakes

By JIMMY DONAHUE
NEA Service Sports Writer

Some day some one is going to declare a Christmas in March for fishermen. For March, besides being windy, is the most of preparation and anticipation for anglers, and they'd just as soon have Santa Claus fill their socks with various items of tackle they've ogled at in stores and magazines, as the usual assortment of ties, handkerchiefs, and vari-colored shorts.

Right now avid anglers are busy overhauling tackle, replacing worn items, and falling easy prey to lures that have been developed over the winter not only to entice fish, but the fishermen themselves.

This year is no exception. Counters are groaning under an assortment of baits that resemble anything from a sickly looking frog to an over-ripe banana. Much of this tackle is good, a lot is fair, and some of it wouldn't catch fish with the help of a net.

But your modern Ike Walton isn't fooled by the latter. He doesn't spend millions of dollars a year for tackle without learning a lesson. They're able to discern the difference between fish getters and fishermen's goat-getters.

Fly-Casting Is Fine
All types of fishing tackle show a big improvement this season.

In the fly casting division there is a noticeable trend toward finer tackle, with tapered lines better than ever, longer and finer leaders more in demand, and flies of the midge variety, tied on hooks size 18 and 20 getting more and more use as their value in the hot summer months is realized.

There's still the battle between hollow steel and bamboo in the rod department. The steel weapons have been further developed, having been pulled down to a weight as low as four ounces in order to give greater flexibility. Bamboo, in an effort to keep pace of the development of steel, has been incorporated into double-built sticks, and rods with steel centers.

In the matter of reels, there is a wider trend toward the automatic variety, which has been lightened considerably, and brought within a fair price range. Greater effort is being made to educate the fisherman to balance his reel with rod and line.

In this connection one concern, featuring balanced tackle, has employed Tony Accetta, former amateur casting champion and now king of the pros, to make a tour of the country preaching the gospel of correct balance.

In bait casting, as in fly fishing, the battle wages between steel and bamboo rods. This writer leans toward bamboo in the long rod, but favors hollow steel in bait casting, because metal rods can stand a lot more punishment.

The power steel rods with double grips are mighty effective weapons in trolling big spoons and plugs for huge big game fish—and who would want to handle a good bamboo rod in that fashion!

Bait casting reels continue to improve, with finer development of the level wind feature. One company has gone so far as to dispense with the line carriage and worm entirely, using a spiral wind device that spools the line evenly. Wider use of aluminum alloy in spoils and chassis is making for less weight and wrist fatigue.

Getting down to the lures themselves there are a legion.
There's the new "ding-bat," a creation featuring two sets of hair legs and a mouth piece that gives the plug an erratic action while it runs deep. The bucktail legs impart a sinuous action that has been missing in wooden plugs for years.
Then there's the two-oreno, a two-in-one lure that has a different action for each end of the plug. Attach the line to one end and you have a wide wobbling action near the surface. The other end produces a deep darting movement.
A new "devil" bait, development of the old ace-king-queen series spoon, also incorporates a bucktail. It's a wobbler that dives deep.

Development goes forward fast in the bass bug division. Three new eye-catchers this year are the pop-eyed frog, with wiggle hair legs; a plunker bass bug, and a small brother of the river trout.

In the fly department, in addition to a wider manufacture of midge and small flies, there is a growing popularity among the bivisibles. This fly has been comparatively slow in catching on in this country because, in the quiet chalk streams of England, where our fly fishing art came from, there was little reason to employ it. However, in the rushing mountain streams of the United States, where fast white water is apt to suck under a finely tied dry fly, the heavily-hacked bivisible is right at home.

HER NAME IN LIGHTS

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DAPHNE BRETT, charming young New York advertising executive, is in love with LARRY SMITH, architect. Daphne has one younger sister, JENNIFER.

Jennifer reveals Daphne's attempt to guide her career. First she dates TUCKER AINSLEY, wealthy playboy, in defiance of Daphne's next she makes a play for Larry. This develops a struggle between the two sisters.

Eventually the sisters reach a showdown, but it is clear that Jennifer intends to lead her own life, possibly marry Tucker Ainsley. Meanwhile Daphne, now again and the same night, later, he proposes marriage over the telephone. Daphne, delightedly, wants to say "yes," but she knows her first duty is to get Jennifer successfully launched on a career. She plans to tell Larry just this, ask him to wait, and then Jennifer comes home with the announcement that she has lost her job.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XIV

BACK of them the music played softly. Sixty stories below the lights of Manhattan blinked out the outlines of the city streets that spread beneath them like a toy village. Overhead the stars shone down upon them and a new moon, riding high, lighted the terrace on the Star Light Roof.

"Isn't it beautiful, Larry? It's so—somehow it's so beautiful it seems unreal. Look down there. Can you believe that's the same street you walked on today? Wouldn't you think if we were to go down we'd find dolls instead of people?"

"Daphne, what's the matter?" Larry turned her about gently but still her eyes didn't meet his. "There isn't anything the matter," she said.

He lighted a cigaret, drew on it and threw it away. "There is. I feel that you have withdrawn into yourself. All evening long I've had the feeling that you've been trying to avoid me, avoid hearing me tell you . . ."

"I didn't mean to," she said. "Last night on the telephone I told you that tonight I was going to ask you to marry me. I haven't much to offer you, Daphne, but everything I have is yours. Things are getting better and next year our firm is branching out in a big way. Will you marry me, darling?"

He caught her breath and closed her eyes. Nothing, at this minute, could take away her ecstasy but she couldn't speak. "Will you?" His voice was so low she could hardly hear it. "Oh, my sweet! I can't tell you I will. But I want to."

"Then why can't you?" "She turned away again. "Larry, you can't take on added responsibility. You've your mother and your aunt to take care of. A wife would be expensive. And I'm just getting along in my job."

His hands on her shoulders were cruelly strong. "Daphne, you want me to believe that your job means more to you than marrying me?"

She didn't deny it but she couldn't say it did.

"Look at me." She raised her eyes. He said: "I knew I couldn't believe that. Will you tell me that you will marry me soon?"

"I can't tell you that either, Larry. I can't even ask you to wait."

His eyes searched her face. "Will you tell me that you love me?"

"I do," she said simply. Because he understood, because her two words meant that she would always love him, he held her tenderly for a moment.

"I'll wait and I'll ask you again and again until you are ready to tell me why you can't now and why you will some day."

REPRIEVE. Hope. The moment had come and gone and it was not all over. She should have known it would not be. She should have known what manner of man, her man was.

"You see, Daphne, I can't give up because you refuse me now. I've had other girls, been infatuated, romantic, but you are the one girl. I knew it the first day I saw you. A man doesn't accept the wrong answer when he feels as I do."

"Larry," her voice was soft but her tones were tense. "Please don't give up. I'm going to ask you to at another time and this is the last time I'll say this, but I've got to tell you that I never want you to stop asking me. Tomorrow I'll know this is unfair and I can't explain it but there it is. With no explanations."

He laughed. "Are you trying to tell me you have a past?"

"No, a present," she said enigmatically. "Now let's go back and dance. Did I forget to tell you that you're my favorite dancing partner?"

He bowed deeply. "Madame is indeed kind. Do you feel like being very gay?"

Daphne said she did.

"GOOD. It's not quite eleven. Why don't we go to a Broadway night club and blow whistles and rattle rattlers and see life?"

"All right. I think it would be fun. But you've mussed my hair, so I'll run along and prepare myself for my Broadway debut."

She ran down the flight of steps to the floor below where the dressing room was located beside the elevators at the last stop. She was half into the dressing room when she heard a voice hailing her and turned to find Jack Cartwright at her elbow.

"Hello, Jack. I haven't seen you in a month of Sundays. I thought you were in Virginia for the rest of your life. Thought you'd deserted us." She was genuinely glad to see him. She had met Tucker and Jack at the same party and Jack had paid her ardent attentions until he withdrew in favor of Tucker. He had been away a long time.

"I got back just in time, didn't I?"

"It all depends on what you mean by that."

"To congratulate you and Tucker."

"Now, that's too sweet of you, Jack. Would you mind telling me what for?"

He squeezed her elbow and gave her a knowing smile. "So that's the way it is? An elopement, bigosh!"

Daphne laughed because it was so ridiculous. Jack didn't interpret that laugh correctly.

"I won't give you away, honey. Would you like to know how I found out?"

"Found out what?" she countered.

"About the wedding license. Yes. 'Oh, the wedding license. Yes. 'Oh, Jack, I would.'"

"Old Jack is always in the place where news breaks, it happened to be the city hall today. Imagine my surprise to find Tucker walking out of the marriage license bureau! Well, sir, I walked right in, big as you please, said I was a reporter and wanted to see the day's batch. And there it was: a license sold to or issued to Tucker Ainsley and Jennifer D. Brett. But that D. didn't fool me a bit."

Daphne's face had gone whiter than her satin gown. She wet her dry lips.

"Excuse me," she said and brushed past him.

"Oh, Larry, we've got to stop this," she said, half-stumbling up the stairs to where he waited for her at the top. "Hurry!"

E. O. Brown Dies at Clarksville Home

Paralysis Brings Death to Coach of College of the Ozarks

CLARKSVILLE, Ark.—Edear O. (Silent) Brown, College of the Ozarks athletic director, died here at 8:30 p. m. Thursday night. He had been critically ill for several weeks. Death was the result of a stroke of paralysis.

Coach Brown came to the College of the Ozarks three years ago after 13 years as head football coach at Arkansas Tech. He was the oldest college coach in the state. It was at Tech where he gained the nickname, "Silent," because of his reticence concerning his teams' prospects.

Had Great Record
Coach Brown compiled one of the greatest coaching records ever made in the Southwest. At Tech, his teams won 79 games and lost 20. He was coach of several state championship teams and was co-coach with Tech of the football championship in 1935 when the College of the Ozarks dropped intercollegiate competition. Since then, Coach Brown had been head of the Physical Education Department at Ozarks and director of the intramural program.

The original Arkansas Tech team, which Brown took over in 1920, was perhaps the state's greatest. In four years of playing outstanding teams, including the Army, only Army and Texas A. & M. defeated it. Teams defeated included Tulsa University, Tennessee Doctors, Dallas University, Kirksville Osteopaths, and other strong teams of the Midwest.

The Tech team played Army in 1924, the only Arkansas team ever to face the Cadets. They were defeated, 44 to 0, but Brown said the result would have been different if his star player John Tucker, present Tech coach and all-time Arkansas football player, had played. Tucker was out with an injury.

Known as a great conditioner, Brown came to Tech with a great athletic career behind him. He was twice all-state center at Wabash College in Indiana and had many medals which he had won as a weight man on track teams.

Coming to the College of the Ozarks in 1933 after the Mountaineers had enjoyed comparative success, Brown, in his first year with George Cole as assistant, produced a team which made a great record. His success continued until 1935 when his team halved the state championship.

Rivalry between Arkansas Tech and College of the Ozarks, always strong, increased after Brown went to Ozarks and was succeeded by his star pupil, John Tucker, at Tech. The contest between master teacher and pupil packed the stands during the Thanksgiving Day games. Yet every game ended in a tie.

Coach Brown is survived by his widow and a son, Francis. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

In the Training Camps

SARASOTA, Fla.—(AP)—Bob (Lefty) Grove, Red Sox southpaw star who maps out his own training program, gave himself an over-sized dose of work Thursday's two-hour drill under a blistering sun.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(AP)—The Boston Bees regulars pounded Vic Frasier, Dallas pitching rookie, for four hits and five runs in the sixth inning Thursday to defeat the Yankees, 5-3, and even the intracub practice series.

HAVANA—(AP)—Featuring a continued improvement in the pitching department but not much in the way of offense, the New York Giants were held to a 12-inning 1-all tie by the Cuban all-star professionals in a drizzling rain Thursday.

PASADENA, Calif.—(AP)—Manager Jimmy Dykes, touring a movie lot with his Chicago White Sox as guests of Comedian Joe E. Brown, hinted Thursday his 1937 outfield will be composed of Rip Radtke, Larry Rosenthal, and either Dixie Walker or Mike Kreevich.

TAMPA, Fla.—(AP)—The "Kellys" beat the "Sheehans" 1 to 0 Thursday in the first practice game of the Cincinnati Reds' spring training camp.

CATALINA ISLAND, Calif.—(AP)—Manager Charlie Grimm put his Chicago Cubs through a stiff three-hour drill Thursday, with all 27 members of the squad getting in some batting practice.

CLEARWATER, Fla.—(AP)—Van Lingle Mungo, fireball right-hand pitcher of the Brooklyn Dodgers, ended his holdout Thursday by signing for 1937 at a salary believed to be $15,000.

Government Now Lists 30,000 Italians as Being With Enemy

MADRID, Spain.—(AP)—Insurgent artillery blasted anew at this beleaguered capital Friday as the government commanders reported that their war-fagged "militians" were holding an army of 30,000 Italians in check on the north-eastern front 44 miles away.

Shells exploded in the Grand Via and struck lower buildings in one section of the city.

Three hundred insurgents were killed or wounded in southern Spain, it was reported from Andujar.

GOOD GARDENING

First Essential Is Good Lot

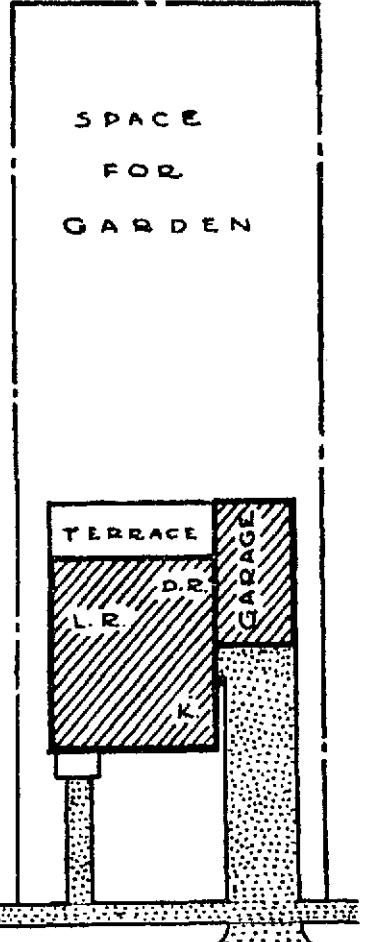

By DONALD GRAY
NEA Gardening Consultant
If you are planning to build a home this spring, consider the lot first. This you will be able to build a home with an outdoor living room, from the ground up.

If you have a choice of lots, get one that should permit the front of the house to face west. This will give you freedom to sit in the rear of your house in the late afternoon, and not face the setting sun. The morning sun is better, too, for your garden.

If there are trees on the lot, make sure they are not located where the after the house is built, it is better to buy a barren lot and plant the trees where they are wanted.

A vacant lot should have three to six inches of topsoil on the surface of the land. Have this soil scraped in a pile before building operations begin.

The modern garage is built alongside the house, having the entire back yard for gardening.

house, garage, or driveway are to be built. It costs money to cut down trees. If their location is right, look at the state of their health, and find out what varieties they are.

Some trees are too old and have decayed branches, while some varieties have a way of growing their roots into sewers. The grade of the ground at their roots must be the grade for other parts of the grounds.

Usually a wooded lot costs more, and unless the trees become an asset

Remember trees, shrubs, flowers and grass must have topsoil to grow.

If restrictions permit, and the lot is small, insist on having the garage a part of the house with its opening towards the street. The driveway will cost less to build and maintain, and the space above may be used for an extra bedroom.

The time has come when we live in the rear part of our house, not on the front porch. The more garden space for play area and flowers, the better.

If possible, have your garage and kitchen next to your neighbor's garage. This will permit your living quarters to have more space, and if everyone on the street had their garages next to each other, one living room would be next to another, instead of the usual stupid way of looking from our windows across your neighbor's drive into their kitchen.

Time spent in choosing a lot and planning a house is half the pleasure of building a home. The more thought given to planning the more satisfactory will be the results.

NEXT: Foundation planting.

Cinema Czar Hays Rounds Out Fifteenth Year of His Reign

His New Contract Proves That Filmland Values Its "General"

By NEA Service

Just 15 years ago, on March 5, 1922, a wiry little man became Czar of Motion Pictures. Since that time there have been many rumors that another man was to succeed him, but Will Hays still wields the scepter in filmland.

A year ago, in fact, he was asked to tear up his contract, which would have expired next month, and thereupon he was given a new one for five years. That's what Hollywood thinks of Hays.

And there's a good reason. Early in 1922 the film capital, quivering in alarm, was the target of critical blasts from all over the nation. Editorials, sermons, and resolutions by the scores were slandering Hollywood for the luridness of its films and of its stars' private lives.

Disastrous censorship seemed just around the corner. To avert it, something had to be done quickly. The Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., was formed, and Will Hays was chosen to guide it in its work of advancing and making secure the future of the screen.

Hays had been a prominent lawyer, a chairman of the Republican National Committee, a postmaster general, and he had held other notable honors. Conscientious, tact, integrity, leadership qualities, influential acquaintances—Hays had everything the movie men sought.

In him, they believed they had just the man to arbitrate between eternally crapping movie magnates, and to mold film policy so as to ward off criticism and censorship.

Not a "Front"

During his tenure, Hays has dodged many brickbats. The fact that some of them were attacks condemning him for being too moral, others for being too liberal, seems a vindication of his career, and an answer to critics who have thought him merely a "front" for the film business.

One of the busiest men in Hollywood is the "General," as his associates call him. If he isn't running for a train for which he is usually late, he can be seen dictating in a restaurant, or talking animatedly through a phone.

And he's just as active in his private life. Golf bores him; it's too slow. For relaxation, he rides a spirited horse. Mrs. Hays admits she can't get him to ease his pace. Hays pals a lot with his son, Bill, a senior at Wabash College, from which he himself was graduated in 1900.

Hays is now 57. Though movies have been his constant work for a decade and a half, he still is an inveterate film fan, and tries to see them all.

The big mission of the movies, he believes, is entertainment.

Tailless Sheep
BROOKINGS, S. D.—(AP)—A tailless breed of sheep has been developed by James W. Wilson, director of the state agricultural college experiment station. For 23 years Wilson has been crossing the native Siberian sheep with grades and purebreds of the United States. The resultant breed, not yet available to sheepmen, is said to have more vitality than other breeds.

Hobbs has introduced a bill in the house to prevent members from adding to the Record speeches they do not deliver. He would also limit distribution of the Record.
